U. S. Loses Two More Warships In Solomons

The raging battle for Guadalcanal island in the Solomon group has cost the United States two more warships, the U. S. S. O'Brien (top) and the U. S. S. Meredith, both latest type destroyers of 1,630 tons displacement, the Navy has disclosed.

STIMSON HITS LEE PROPOSAL

Senator Prepares Answer To Criticism by War Secretary

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Senator Lee (D-Okla.), determined to amend the "teen-age draft bill" to bar all alcoholic drinks from military areas, promised to answer on the senate floor today Secretary Stimson's criticism that the proposal was "destructive rather than constructive."

"I'll give my answer to Mr. Stimson's letter when I present my amendment," Lee said, spiking talk that he might decide to withhold it.

"It's not my intention to undertake to present any charges as to drunkenness in camps, or in any way to indict the Army or the armed forces as to the situation in the camps."

"I just want to do my best to provide a clean, wholesome place for these school-age boys to train."

Stimson Disturbed

The secretary of war wrote Chairman Reynolds (D-N.C.) of the senate military committee yesterday that the Lee amendment would "disturb" the sale of all alcoholic beverages, including beer and wine, on military and naval posts and adjacent communities.

"I do not question the motives of this legislation," Stimson wrote.

U. S. FLYING FORTRESSES HIT SUB BASE

Nine Enemy Fighters Destroyed in Raid At Lorient, France

THREE BOMBERS LOST IN RUNNING BATTLE

Other Raids Carried Out; Germans Strike Back At England

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Oct. 22.—Nine enemy fighters were destroyed by United States Flying Fortresses in their raid yesterday on the German submarine base at Lorient, France, headquarters of the United States Army Air Forces announced today.

"Interrogation of the bombing crews indicated that the engagement in which these planes were destroyed began as the Flying Fortresses crossed the enemy coast on their way to the target," said the statement, issued by the headquarters of the Eighth air force, today.

"Formations of F-W 190's attacked the bombers and a continuous running battle was fought until the planes neared the vicinity of Quimper. Three of our bombers are missing."

Holland Radio Silent

Both transmitters of the German-controlled Hilversum radio in Holland went off the air between 1 and 3:30 p. m. today, the Dutch news agency said, indicating that Allied planes might be in the region. Hilversum, in central Holland, is in an area recently hard-hit by the Allies in blows against Nazi rail and water transport in the Netherlands.

An earlier communiqué on the fortress raid had said only that direct bomb hits were scored on the target, but reports broadcast by the Vichy radio indicated that the raid had had a devastating effect.

The airbase at Mauthausen, near Cherbourg, from which Nazi aircraft work in cooperation with the submarines, was a secondary target of the Fortresses, three of which failed to return.

German raiders struck back at dawn, bombing and machine gunning a town of Britain's southeast coast and leaving the streets littered with the debris of dwellings and business buildings. Nine bodies were recovered from the wreckage and searchers hunted for others.

Say Damage Slight

The Berlin broadcast of the German communiqué said "the French population again suffered losses" in the fortress raids on western France, but purported the damage to have been slight. It said German fighter planes downed three of the four-engine bombers.

While they were busy over northern France, American-built Mustang fighters of the RAF made a hedge-hopping attack on objectives in western Germany.

The speedy fighters strafed barges in the Dortmund-Ems canal, surprised the defenses at Lathen in Hannover province and strafed a factory and gas tank there.

Mustangs also set fire to a 500-ton ship in the Zuider Zee, while mosquito bombers attacked selected targets in Holland and western Germany.

Opposition was described as ineffective, and all the British raiders returned, and the British raiders returned, and the British raiders returned.

WIVES WARNED TO KEEP JOBS

Resignations Won't Extend Husband's Draft Deferral, Goble Says

Col. C. W. Goble, state Selective Service director, said today that working wives of draft registrants could not hope to extend deferment of their husbands by quitting their jobs.

The same thing applies to childless wives who refuse to accept employment for the same reason, he added.

Colonel Goble's statements followed reports from a "considerable number" of Ohio draft boards that working wives were resigning, apparently to delay drafting of their mates.

"Possibly this action on the part of many working wives," Goble speculated, "may be caused by the fact that all local boards on the state have been, and are now engaged in the process of reclassifying all 3-A registrants."

Goble recently reported most Ohio boards had exhausted their supply of 1-A men and ordered them to re-examine registration lists to make certain no eligibles had been overlooked before turning to married men classified in 3-A.

"Present regulations in effect since enactment of the allowance act," he said, "direct local boards to proceed to reclassify registrants with wives (but no children) in anticipation of meeting future calls."

"In the light of revised regulations, the fact that a wife works, or does not work, is no longer a determining factor in the board's arriving at proper reclassification of a registrant who may have been classified as a 3-A registrant under former regulations."

"There appears to be no logical reason for women who are working to quit their jobs, or for those who may choose to accept employment not to do so."

"Thousands of wives of men now in service are today contributing immensely to war production in plants throughout Ohio. . . sacrifices and inconveniences are to be expected and experienced."

MESS ATTENDANT'S FEAT IS PRAISED

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22.—A young naval ensign related last night how a powerful Negro mess attendant swam six hours through shark-infested waters, towing to safety a raft load of wounded seamen from a U. S. destroyer, sunk by the Japanese off the Solomon Islands.

The ensign was Robert N. Adrian of Ontario Ore. He was wounded in the engagement, he said in an NBC radio broadcast, but despite his injuries was able to cling to the side of the overboarded raft while the strong-shouldered Negro seaman inched his way shoreward.

The mess attendant was known to Adrian only as "French."

Army Won't Permit Holidays To Halt Training Programs

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Secretary Stimson said today the Army would not let Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays interfere with training and induction schedules.

Men will not be ordered to recruiting and induction stations for examination and induction on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 26, or on Christmas eve or Christmas day.

Except for those three days, however, the holidays will not be permitted to delay training or induction, Stimson said, and the normal practice of granting holiday furloughs during the period between Thanksgiving and New Year's day "will necessarily be restrictive."

Stimson said men already inducted but at home on 14-day furlough to settle personal affairs would be permitted to extend the furlough by one or two days, if that was necessary to permit them to spend Thanksgiving or Christmas with their families.

CIVILIAN ECONOMY PLANS BROADENED

Nelson Forecasts Deeper Curtailment In Goods Production

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—New and deeper curtailment in civilian goods production was forecast today by Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board in disclosing a program of scheduling essential civilian items exactly as military weapons are scheduled, sloughing off all but the truly necessary civilian commodities.

Nelson told a press conference he had asked the Office of Civilian Supply to submit shortly a list of the civilian goods whose production it considered "necessary to keep the civilian economy sound so we can carry on a strong war program."

He acknowledged, however, that "there aren't a great many more civilian items which can be eliminated."

Major Naval Fight Expected Hourly; 2 U. S. Warships Lost

Navy Admits Loss of Destroyers O'Brien and Meredith; Most of Crews Rescued; American Pilots Score In Reprisals

(By Associated Press) Allied and Japanese forces counted mounting losses in the battle of the southwest Pacific today as planes and ships of both sides jockeyed for positions to throw decisive blows.

In the Solomon islands where a major naval war may be touched off at any hour, the United States lost two destroyers, the O'Brien and the Meredith. American planes retaliated by damaging an enemy cruiser and a destroyer and shooting down 12 Japanese planes.

Destruction of the U. S. destroyers was regarded as evidence of the presence of larger American warships in the Solomons.

Westward of the Solomons, Allied heavy bombers blasted at enemy ships in New Britain's harbor of Rabaul, causing fires and explosions.

More fires were started on the Rabaul airbase by bombs dropped by fliers under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian command. Another raid inflicted serious damage on Japanese-occupied Moabesse on Timor, north of Port Darwin.

The Japanese backfiring attempt to grab Port Moresby in New Guinea suffered another setback as Australian troops swept on the foe's flank in the Owen Stanley mountains and forced a retreat. MacArthur's headquarters reported today (Australian time).

A spokesman said greater numbers of troops are engaged on both sides and that the Japanese might be making a last stand before backing nine miles north to Kokoda, midway of Moresby and the enemy's Buna invasion base.

Most Crew Personnel Safe

Announcing losses within the last few days of the 1,570-ton O'Brien and the 1,630-ton Meredith, the Navy said last night all of the personnel of the former were believed saved and many from the Meredith.

The Navy revealed that the announcement of the sinkings before the next of kin had been notified represented a new policy—to announce losses as quickly as possible when it was believed the enemy knew of them and there was no reason to keep them secret for security purposes.

Each destroyer carried a normal complement of 175 officers and men.

American planes continued the aerial assault on Japanese war vessels and bombed enemy positions and ammunition dumps on Guadalcanal, where the United States grip on the island airbase is the focal point of an expected Japanese invasion.

On the night of Oct. 19-20, the Navy added, naval aircraft bombed

Eagles Rally Sunday To Aid Scrap Drive

The Salem Eagles lodge will add another boost to the local scrap salvage drive Sunday when it holds a scrap drive program in the lodge home, commencing at 2:30 p. m.

A War Bond and Stamp booth will be erected for the program and the lodge will invest $1,000 more in United States War bonds, bringing its total to $28,500.

The Salem Eagles lodge is leading all other Eagles lodges in Ohio in the purchase of the valuable United States certificates. The Leontonia Eagles hold second place.

SCRAPPING WAR RELICS

Many relics of former days have gone into the scrap pile during the scrap metal drive now under way, but none has been more significant than the relics of World War I which American Legion members have voted to turn into the war effort. The German machine gun, rifles, saw-tooth bayonet and helmet which have decorated the Legion home are mementos of a war in which these Legionnaires, not their fathers or grandfathers, fought. They mean more to the veterans than relics of other wars possibly can mean to any other group now living. But they did not let sentiment stand in their way of helping to win the present war. They realize that if this war is not won sentimental relics will have no meaning to anyone in this country.

Perhaps the steel mills could continue with war production without these few relics. The Legionnaires might have withheld their donation until everyone else had dug up all the scrap metal that could be found. But they realized that if everyone assumed such an attitude there wouldn't be much scrap metal to pour into the steel furnaces. In casting aside sentiment to aid the war effort they have demonstrated that their patriotism is not just lip service.

JOB FOR AIR RAID WARDENS

James M. Landis, director of civilian defense, is missing a bet if he doesn't grab the chance to tie up the block plan of civilian war service to the air raid organization.

The block plan, which Director Landis favors for wider adoption, makes one person in each block responsible for leadership in civilian war activities, such as salvage conservation, ride sharing and purchase of war bonds.

In hundreds of towns and cities, air raid warden organizations have been set up to deal with the remote possibility of bombing attacks. Except in regions that have chosen to practice intensively with mock warfare, there has been no outlet for the enthusiasm and interest of this vast collection of citizens. They have been marking time, waiting for an emergency they hope may never happen.

Having been assured that the possibility of bombing attacks on any but coastal cities is almost too remote to be worth considering, the wardens in the relatively secure areas are wondering what there is for them to do. Many of them would jump at the chance to be useful in the less exciting but no less important work of helping their neighbors win the war.

STARTING TO VOTE AT 18

The purely political proposal by Sen. Vandenberg for amending the Constitution to give voting rights to 'teen age fighting men of the United States has no proper place in any program of wartime discussion.

The senator's declaration that if young men of 18 are to be drafted they should be able to vote is illogical and opportunistic; at least, he failed to mention it before, when young men of 18 were enlisting.

As for the illogicality, it does not follow that military service at 18 connotes the right to vote. In many cases, 21 is too tender an age for that responsibility. Conversely, some citizens could be trusted with the vote before they are 18. There is no answer to the question of what is the proper age for starting to vote. Russia says 18. Germany says 20. The United States and Great Britain say 21. Norway says 21, Finland 24 and Japan 25. Strangely, scant attention has been given to what may be the more important question of the proper age for ceasing to vote.

In any event, there is neither the time nor inclination to argue the question in the midst of a war. It is a peacetime argument. Perhaps 18 is the proper age to begin voting, but 1942 plainly is not the proper time to start arguing about anything except how to get on with the war.

SYMBOLIC TIN CAN

War production board's order bringing 15 states into the tin can collection program is going to produce some deep thinking along with a lot of important salvage. Ohio is one of the 15 states.

The tin can sometimes has been used as a symbol of modern civilization, but it is more clearly a symbol of the paradox of waste in an economy based on constantly lower cost for constantly better products.

It has been the theory—and the fact—of the use of tin cans that the material in them was too cheap to be salvaged economically. Yet, the war has revealed that nothing is too cheap to be salvaged economically. The United States stands in acute need of everything, even junk.

Problems in economics, it seems, cannot be considered apart from the factor of time, which changes all things. If it had been necessary for the government to subsidize plants to reclaim tin and steel from tin cans, the cost would have been more than justified by the possession of an adequate supply of tin and an important amount of scrap steel when the United States entered the war.

If our new National Income only looked as big to the individual taxpayer as it does to the Washington bureaucrats now, wouldn't we be in clover?

It may not be long before a boy can graduate directly from the eighth grade into the Army—and the militarists call 'em men.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, October 23.

THE AUGURIES for this day intimate that right action, resourcefulness and enterprise, backed up by industry, application, wise decisions and proper regard for financial and other outlay may eventually bring success and fair profit. Shun extravagance, tempestuous conduct and domestic strife.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year calling for very careful and considerate conduct, both in business and private associations. With enterprise, industry, good judgment and sound principles there should be progress. The mentality may be keyed up to sharp insight as well as common sense and practical reliability.

A child born on this day may have a contradictory nature, with sound and dependable mentality, but with impulses prone to let the better judgment be overruled.

We have discovered that 40 per cent of the 400,000,000 passengers (yearly) on railroads alone still are traveling for pleasure. If this is not curtailed we will have no alternative but rationing of all travel.—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman.

Without any quibbling whatever I can say that the British have strong admiration for both our lighter and bomber type planes and that they look on the time when the newest planes will be available to English pilots.—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I ace.

If people observe the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit and don't abuse their tires, we will be able to bridge the gap between a diminishing natural supply of rubber and synthetic production.—Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers.

Names of many of the islands in the battle zone, seemingly, never before appeared in print, and we didn't know there were such places. But it takes a global war to find out some of these places.

These are times when every day is precious for each one of us; we have an obligation to our country and to ourselves not to waste it.—Dr. Charles Seymour, president Yale university.

PROBLEM OF OVERWEIGHT

Few Scientific Studies Have Been Made

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
SCIENTIFIC studies of abnormal human beings are few and far between. Few careful life histories of giants, dwarfs, thin people and fat people are recorded.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Therefore I find the account of David Willoughby of his studies of probably the fattest woman who ever lived of particular interest and value.

There are a few records of men who came near to 1,000 pounds. David Maguire, of Kenosha, Wisconsin, weighed 800 pounds, and the famous Miles Darden, of North Carolina, weighed over 1,000 pounds, but he died in 1857 when not so much was known about the science of endocrinology and metabolism and no careful study was ever conducted of his daily life.

Mrs. Gertrude Karns, of Shreveport, Iowa, weighed 745 pounds at the age of 28 in 1934, and Rose Nanez was reported to weigh 756 pounds at the age of 23 in 1936. Mr. Willoughby's subject weighed 772½ pounds just before her death in 1939. Perhaps not more than five people who ever lived surpassed her in weight.

Height and Weight Index
There is an index of height to weight that is theoretically 100. When a person is 1.15 (for a male), or 1.11 (female), they are considered pathologically overweight. This subject was 5 feet 8½ inches high, so her index was 2.41 which means her girth, etc., was 2.41, greater than that of a medium-sized average woman.

When she was 10 years old she tipped the scales at 300 pounds. She was said to weigh 16 pounds at birth, which is enormous. At one year she weighed 50 pounds, which is double the weight of the average child of that year. Her mother was a professional fat lady who weighed 720 pounds (though she was over 6 feet tall), and her father weighed 250 pounds.

Her daily life was necessarily entirely different from that of an average person's. She naturally did not get around much because she had to carry nearly half a ton of weight everywhere she went. When she walked she had to stop every little while and rest, and she climbed upstairs once or twice a day, but it was quite an effort.

She ate about one and a half times as much as an ordinary person. I do not know whether this is an accurate statement or not, since apparently her food intake was never weighed. The general theory about abnormally heavy people is that they have a disturbance of balance between fat absorption and fat storage.

This is generally assigned to an imbalance in the secretions of the ductless glands. But there is another school which holds that all overweight is simply a combination of overeating and lack of exercise.

The problems of daily life of such a person were constant. When it came to buying clothes she was really up against it — her glove size was 8, and she wore 8½ EEE shoes, and a girdle or corset for a waist of 76 inches is simply impossible to find ready made. The only advantage of such a condition was that she made a good living in a circus.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. J. S.:—My husband, while serving in the Navy in Panama, had a bad case of malaria. Ever since then he has attacks of "that malaria feeling," and his complexion takes on a grayish tinge and he has cold sores on his lips. Does malaria cause anemia? Should quinine be taken over a period of years? Does a person ever get over malaria?

Answer: Malaria parasites develop inside red blood cells and at the time of maturation burst the red cell and destroy it, so naturally there is always some anemia with malaria. Malaria is an extremely difficult disease to eradicate completely and recurrences may come on many years after everything has been quiet. Change of climate is likely to cause a recurrence. Pilgrim in MANHATTAN by MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS

Chloe Cameron had come to the Samuel's Bureau of Entertainment in search of work as an entertainer. Instead, she became secretary at the Bureau under a Miss Jepson. Chloe hopes that some day she would have an opportunity to substitute for some artist and sing her own cowboy and Indian songs. One Saturday forenoon, Chloe, alone in the office, is revising her rejected book, "Songs of the Trail," when Rann Sturgis, handsome lawyer, comes in to arrange some special entertainment for a society party. When he turns down all the bureau's possibilities, she offers her own specialties without mentioning herself. He leaves, saying that what she offered wouldn't be suitable for this particular occasion but he may be able to use the "Jack Rabbit Gilt" one of her own numbers. Later, it is Chloe's birthday and, on the way home, she stops at a bakery for a cake. Her thoughts go back to last year's celebration in her little home town of Wahilla, Oklahoma. After her mother's death, there was no staying on in her old home. She might have married Nate Barlow, the town's banker, but Chloe was ambitious and wanted a career. Returning to her one-room apartment in Greenwich Village, Chloe notices that Hugh Richards—the dark, quiet, young man, who lived next door—has changed. Chloe telephones Rann Sturgis to tell him he left his pen at the Bureau, but he is out. She leaves a message with his Chinese servant for the lawyer to call her, and goes back to a poem she was composing.

CHAPTER SIX

And she wrote on with the pen till she had another poem—deliberately, scratching out, beginning again. At last she read it over aloud, softly, intensely satisfied:

My new love asked me questions,
As arm-in-arm we went.
I made the old, old answers,
And he was well-content.

How could I tell my new love,
Who still was much to learn
"My love is but a shining cloak
That men may wear in turn."

"A cloak that warms and shelters,
That will not rend or fray.
I fold it round you softly—
Be happy—for a day!"

Of course, she hadn't any new love, but that was the poem. She read it again, silently, biting the end of the pen, and leaving, she was horrified to discover, a small dent in it.

It was then she heard the scratching at the window and realized that it had been going on for some time.

Her pet cat, Toby, clawing at the glass, home through the rain!

She let him in, his fine tiger stripes wet and ragged. Even his whiskers bristled with drops. He rubbed against her, adoring the warmth of the room, the smell of food.

"Well, Toby!" as she turned over the frying chicken, which but for him she might have forgotten. "So you came back. How did you know?"

Probably it was the rain. Probably his friends had been kept indoors, and there was nothing better to do. But she would not have it so. By some high feline intuition Toby had known it was her birthday and had returned.

Then Chloe opened the drop-leaf table and spread a white cloth, and set the silver and the glass about. She got out Toby's blue bowl which would be placed beside the hearth. Toby rubbed against her at sight of the bowl, and purred his double-barreled purr. She went to the shelves in the kitchenette to open a can of salmon.

But the cupboard was bare. Tomatoes, corn, pimientos—that was all.

The delicatessen will be open, remembered Chloe, and turned off the gas under the rice and the chicken. She pulled on her cowboy boots with the stars around the tops—they looked like Russian boots, and they were the best things she knew for splashy weather—tied a scarf peasant-fashion about her head, and got into her damp coat.

It was storming hard. A wind from the river blew the rain in gusts. The red umbrella jumped and swirled in Chloe's hands. Going through the arched doorway she ran head-on into someone coming in, granted the pardon that he begged, and was aware that he turned and looked after her.

She ducked her head, pressing against the wind, plunged into the delicatessen shop and, acquiring the can of salmon, plunged out again. The wind was behind her now, pushing so hard that she had to grasp the struts of the umbrella to keep it from being turned wrong-side-out. She was thinking about her poem.

"I beg your pardon."
Someone stood just inside the arched gateway beyond the lantern.

In the shadow of the wall. Chloe was aware that it was the person she had collided with on her way out and that he was saying precisely what he had said then. He wore no overcoat and his bare hand looked cold as he lifted it to his hat. His eyes burned darkly.

"I'm Hugh Richards," he said. "I lived in the apartment next to you."

"Why, of course," said Chloe, recognizing him now. Richards looked thinner than usual, paler than she remembered him.

"I wonder if you—" he began, then, "I forgot something when I gave up my apartment this afternoon. I wonder if you will let me into it through yours. I won't be a minute."

"Certainly," agreed Chloe, and permitted him to take her umbrella while they went through the rain along the path. "You gave up your key, I suppose."

"It's not that," he said. "The bolt is drawn on the inside now, and the superintendent has gone out." The superintendent must have returned, reflected Chloe, for the light burned brightly in the basement of 12. But she said no more, aware that Hugh Richards had been evicted. Brook had sprung—perhaps after many warnings—and locked the door while the tenant was out.

How terrible, she thought. I hope his things are still in his room, and she squished up the stairs in her starchy boots with Hugh Richards behind her.

She went at once to the communicating door while he stood dripping on the buffalo robe beside Toby and the fire. Wetter than Toby he looked, with a lock of his dark hair streaked across his forehead.

He saw that she was having trouble with the bolt and went to her assistance, opening the door.

"With your permission," he said, and went into the other apartment.

Chloe, free of her wet wrappings, heard him moving about. She opened Toby's salmon and went on with her preparation of dinner. After a time Mr. Richards came in again, carrying a satchel and a hand trunk. He looked long and narrow and crooked between them, as if they had been hung on him and the hand trunk was dragging him down. He set them on the rug.

"Thank you," he said, and picked up his hat. The room was filled with the odor of big fried chicken, the coffee Chloe was measuring into the pot, of biscuits baking beside the oven. The milk looked around him.

He's hungry, thought Chloe. And where's he going now?

Won't you? she began. He looked at her as if dazed. Then, without any warning, he crumpled up and fell.

Chloe stood stunned for an instant; then rushed into the bathroom and brought cold water to dash in his face. If only I had something hot to make him drink. I'll call the artist, she thought. She decided against this. Mr. Brock might hear that he was in the house; then there would be trouble.

Milk's what he needs, anyhow, she thought, and dared to leave off chaffing his hands long enough to heat a glassful. Then, she knelt over to him, pressing the hot milk between his steep gray lips.

He stirred. The long eyelids fluttered, opened.

"It's good for you to lie flat," said Chloe, "but wouldn't you rather lie on the couch?"

"It might," he agreed, "be less informal." But when she had got him to the couch, his eye fell on the satchel and the hand trunk waiting beside the door.

"I forgot," he said. "I'd better be going."

"Before you've eaten?" "I don't remember," he answered, "anything about eating." Which was probably true. He rose, looking white and determined and, going to the satchel, started to pick it up. He swayed against the door instead, and sat down again.

"It's the bending over," he remarked. "Silly of me."

Chloe said, "Is that trunk locked?"

He shook his head, and she opened the trunk.

"Get out of those wet clothes," she commanded. "You're going to stay here and eat something."

He accepted without protest the rumpled suit she found, the shirt and shorts and socks. (He must be wet clear through.) The shoes that looked more worn than those he had on. She steadied him into his old apartment and shut the door.

Cleveland Drafting Coffee Ration Plan

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—Cleveland won't wait very long for coffee rationing. If the federal government doesn't act soon, the city will figure out its own system of distributing the beverage so all consumers get at least a cup at breakfast.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche's committee named to alleviate the city's coffee situation decided to appeal to the War Production board for national rationing immediately but at the same time voted to explore possibilities of setting up a local rationing system.

Meanwhile, Mayor Lausche was asked to issue a proclamation urging Cleveland to reduce coffee consumption temporarily "as a patriotic duty."

Agreeing that rationing was the only way out of the coffee predicament that has left some consumers without the beverage while others have plenty, the committee heard a suggestion that sugar ration cards be used in distributing coffee. It was proposed that grocers initial sugar ration cards so other dealers would know the customer had received his coffee allowance.

Grocers and distributors reported consumers showed no inclination to reduce coffee consumption although the supply had been cut one-third.

MORALS CHARGES BESET MOVIE STAR

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Less than a week after his arrest on a charge of raping a 17-year-old girl at a party, Actor Errol Flynn was accused of raping the 15-year-old daughter of a hotel chef.

Accompanied by Juvenile Officer R. W. Bowling, Peggy La Rue Satterlee appeared at the district attorney's office yesterday and swore to a complaint charging that the British-born actor raped her twice aboard his yacht Sirocco while on a moonlight cruise to Catalina island Aug. 3, 1941.

Flynn, who recently was divorced by actress Lili Damita, was arrested Friday on a charge he raped Betty Hansen, 17, of Lincoln, Neb., last Sept. 27, at a swimming and drinking party at the fashionable Bel Air home of Fred McEvoy, wealthy British sportsman and former Olympic bobsled champion. He was released in $1,000 bail on that case pending preliminary hearing Oct. 23.

Both charges were denied by Flynn.

The actions were filed by Angelo Ricci and Ada Cerilli, occupants of a car allegedly struck by a truck-trailer of the defendant company, each demanding $15,000 for personal injuries and charging carelessness and negligence in the operation of the truck.

HEPBURN RESIGNS CANADIAN OFFICE

Premier and Critic of Mac-Kenzie King, Quits Without Explanation

(By Associated Press)
TORONTO, Oct. 22. — Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, stormy petrel of Canadian politics and severe critic of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's dominant government, resigned last night with an unexpectedness in keeping with his colorful and frequently spectacular public career.
Without explanation the 46-year-old Hepburn surrendered the reins of the liberal provincial government he has headed for more than eight years and indicated his ultimate intention to retire to his 600-acre farm.
Hepburn said he would retain his seat in the legislature, but would not seek re-election.
He caused something of a furor only last February when he asserted that "because of Pearl Harbor
the main fleet of the United States Navy is in hiding."

STIMSON ATTACKS SEN. LEE PROPOSAL

Amendment Advocate To Prepare Answer For War Secretary

"The practical results I do question and strongly deplore.

"They will tend to aggravate conditions it seeks to remove, and to confuse a logical program for the control of the liquor evil already in successful operation by the Army."

Majority Leader McCormick
(Mass.) of the house expressed hope that the measure lowering the draft age to 18 would "not be converted into a prohibition bill" or delayed in passage. Rep. Hebert (D-La.) termed the Lee amendment "an attempt to revive national prohibition," said it would mean a return of bootlegging, and declared he would fight it if it reached the house. The House passed the draft bill without a dry clause and would have to concur in any Senate amendment.

Little opposition was apparent in the senate to lowering the draft age. Urged as a military necessity by General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and by Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, the house approved the 18 year limit by a vote of 345 to 16.

Questions, Answers Explain Government's "Victory Tax"

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Here are some questions and answers explaining the "Victory Tax" in the new revenue bill:

Q. Who would have to pay it?

A. Every person with a net income of more than $524 a year. The tax would be 5 per cent on all the "victory tax net income" over that amount. Victory tax net income is defined as a person's gross income, excluding capital gains, and minus expenses and other allowable deductions connected with a trade or business.

Q. Could this tax be over and above my income tax?

A. Yes.
Q. Would some of the victory tax be returned to me after the war?

A. Yes, a single person would be entitled to a post-war refund of 25 per cent of the tax, or $500, whichever was the lesser. The head of a family would have a post-war credit of 40 per cent of the victory tax, or $1,000, whichever was the smaller and for each dependent would get 2 per cent, but not more than $100 refunded.

Q. Is there anyway I could take immediate advantage of the refund, in order to hold down my tax burden?

A. Yes, the bill provides three such methods. You could reduce your immediate tax liability for any given year by as much as the amount of your post-war refund, by showing you had bought government bonds, reduced your indebtedness below the previous year, or paid premiums upon outstanding life insurance policies. But your post-war credit would be reduced to the extent your immediate tax payments were thus lowered.

Q. How would the victory tax be collected?

A. In most cases if you are working for wages or salary, it would be withheld from your paycheck. Exceptions include members of the armed services, domestics, agricultural laborers and casual workers. The latter groups, as well as other recipients of income, such as persons who do not hold jobs but who have income from investments, would pay the victory tax along with their income tax. If they paid no tax, they would make a separate victory tax return.

Q. Would employers have to figure every employee's tax down to the penny? That would take a lot of bookkeeping.

A. Where the tax is withheld, the bill provides for wage band deductions. For instance, men drawing $28.10 and $31.48 a week would be in the $28-32 band and 90 cents a week would be withheld from the pay of each.

Q. Wouldn't that require a settling-up at the end of the tax year?

A. Yes, the taxpayer and the government would have to reach an adjustment at the end of the year when the taxpayer knew how much he had made and exactly how much tax he owed.

Q. How much will the victory tax bring in?

A. Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate finance committee estimates it will yield $3,600,000,000 a year, of which $1,100,000,000 would be subject to post-war refund, leaving a net yield of about $2,500,000,- 000. Treasury officials think the net will not be larger than $2,000,- 000,000.

McSweeney Accuses Bricker Of Army "Evasion" In 1917

(By Associated Press)

Irate because he said his patriotism had been questioned, John McSweeney, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, asserted that his Republican opponent, Gov. John W. Bricker, "desecrated the chaplaincy of the Army because he used it for expediency" in the first World war.

McSweeney told a Cleveland campaign rally last night that 18 months after the start of World war 1, Bricker enlisted as a chaplain although he had been educated to practice law.

McSweeney's campaign literature states he enlisted in 1917; served in France with a machine gun company and was wounded in action.

"The governor implies that because I said he was uninterested in civilian defense, I have mocked the patriotism of thousands of fine Ohioans," the Wooster Democrat said.

"The truth is, the governor is making a mockery of their fine patriotic contributions to civilian defense," McSweeney added.

The former state welfare director asserted mayors and other city officials seeking financial assistance for the civilian defense program were "treated discourteously" by the governor.

Bricker Drafts Reply

Bricker said in an Oct. 12 address that McSweeney had termed "civilian defense in Ohio a joke," and added: "that statement is malicious and positively unpatriotic."

Bricker, contacted in Cincinnati last night, declined comment on McSweeney's assertions except to say:

"I am very proud to serve my country in the capacity in which I did in World war 1."

Bricker said he would answer McSweeney next Monday night. The governor is scheduled to address Republican rallies in each of Ohio's 8558 precincts tonight at 7:30 p. m. He will speak from a Steubenville radio station over a state-wide network.

Addressing the national tax association in Cincinnati last night, Bricker asserted that state and local governments should practice strict economy in the face of mounting war taxes.

"Nothing could be more damaging to the war effort than increased state and local taxes," he said.

Citing the largest federal tax bill in history, the governor said Ohio was well prepared to meet its needs without any additional or increased state taxes during the next two years.

He added that the state's $20,000,000 treasury surplus would have permitted a tax reduction program had not the war interfered.

Theatre Attractions

Concluding the bill for the week at the State theater, "Footlight Serenade" is showing tonight, Friday and Saturday with John Payne, Betty Grable and Victor Mature in the lead roles.

The new musical is the story of two prizefighters who fight it out beautiful for Miss Grable. The film is packed with hit tunes, dancing and romancing.

Jinx Falkenburg, America's ace magazine cover girl is featured in "Lucky Legs" which is at the Grand tonight, Friday and Saturday. Also showing is "Thundering Hoofs", with Tim Holt.

TOKYO HOLDS U. S. PILOTS, IS REPORT

Stimson Acknowledges Jap Claim of Capture of Several Aviators

St. Jones st., Darlington, S. C.; Second Lieut. Dean E. Hollmark, 27, 80 Way ave., Dallas, Texas; Corp Jacob D. Deshaizer, 29, of Oregon, and Sgt. Mechanic Harold A. Spatz, 20, of Kansas.

Monday the Tokyo radio said that airmen captured after the raid had been convicted of "inhuman acts" because, it was charged, they bombed civilians and machine-gunned school children. It was said they "would be severely punished in accordance with International law."

Stimson recalled that in announcing the raid, the War department said that no American planes were actually shot down in Japan or over Japanese-occupied territory.

"However, we understand that some planes encountered bad weather after leaving Japan and were thrown off their course," he added.

Killed by Playmate

ZANESVILLE, Oct. 22.—While playing cowboy, Robert L. Campbell, 8, was shot and killed accidentally last night by John William Harlan, a playmate of the same age. The victim was the son of Councilman James E. Campbell.

LOSSES MOUNTING IN PACIFIC CLASH

Two U. S. Destroyers Sunk; American Pilots Hampered Japanese

A Japanese cruiser west of Guadalcanal. The vessel was damaged and stopped by at least one bomb hit.

Near the same place on the preceding day, dive bombers attacked three enemy destroyers, damaged one and shot down an enemy seaplane.

Japanese planes again sought out the American positions on Guadalcanal, Oct. 19, but American Grumman Wildcat fighters shot down two enemy zero planes while losing a "Wildcat."

Two U. S. Planes Lost

The following day 16 enemy bombers and a heavy escort which tailed a flight of 30 Zeros in a raid on Guadalcanal, tangled with United States fighters. Two of the Japanese bombers and seven Zeros were destroyed. Two American planes were shot down.

Navy planes observed large numbers of enemy ships still in the northern Solomons. Other enemy vessels in the southern part of the islands are being attacked by American air forces, the Navy said.

Ground fighting on Guadalcanal between American troops and the Japanese in the northwestern area of the island was confined chiefly to skirmishing attacks for position.

Handcuffs for Seized Nazis?

Pittsburgh city policemen by the hundreds are giving up their handcuffs for possible use by Canadian authorities in shackling Nazi prisoners in retaliation for a similar move by the Germans. City officers, shown handing over the manacles, buy their own cuffs, paying from $12 to $15 for them. Police Superintendent Harvey Scott, shown receiving the handcuffs, said that about 500 sets would be donated by Pittsburgh city policemen alone.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get clogged and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Overturf Is Uncertain About Lineup For Struthers Clash

JOHNSTON, HARRY EHRHART, KARLIS TO START FRIDAY

Guards, Ends, Fullback Tossups: Two Boys Are Ineligible

After putting his boys through a tough drill on muddy ground, Coach Ray Overturf announced today that he is still uncertain as to who will start for the Quakers against the Big Red from Struthers at Reilly stadium tomorrow night.

It will be Boosters' Night at the stadium. The Salem Boosters' Night and the stadium. The Salem Boosters' club has a special feature up its sleeve.

Two boys, Frank "Jock" Hagan, fullback, and Perry Whitacre, varsity center, who has worked out in the backfield through the past week, have run afoul of scholastic shoes and will not be allowed to play in the Struthers contest.

Johnston To Start
Elmer Johnston, 175 pound red-headed tackle, will start at that berth in place of Duane Thomas who has been shifted to a guard where his speed and aggressiveness may be capitalized upon. Overturf has not yet decided on his end choices. Wait Brian and Walt Krauss are battling for the left end slot with Harry Lodge and Al Kent dueling for the other position.

Gordon "Tubby" Shasteen, Carmen "Toots" Nocera and Thomas are the guard candidates and the Salem boss has not made up his mind as to which two will start. Glenn Weigand is a fixture at left tackle while Jack Karlis will start at the pivot post.

Harry Ehrhart, clever senior scabbard who showed plenty against a powerful Wellsville outfit last week, will get his first starting chance. He will open the game at left half for the Quakers. The 125 pound senior really put forth effort in last week's drills.

Dick Lantz will start at the quarterback post and Dick Green at right half. At full, it is a tossup between Frank "Flick" Entriaken and Ray Wise. Glenn Weigand, 200-pound tackle, will call signals from his post in the forward wall.

May Switch Again
If this combination fails to bring Salem victory Friday, Overturf stated that there are more boys he could use against Youngstown South.

The Struthers team will average about 160 pounds in the line and 160 in the backfield. The Salem line will equal the Big Red's while the backfield will spot the visitors a few pounds when Ehrhart is in the game.

A win will bring the Quakers' season record up to three and three while a defeat would leave them even deeper in the hole. The Big Red has notched one win this year, a 12-0 conquest of Hubbard in their opener.

Kickoff time tomorrow evening will be at 7:45.

Where Marines Mopped Up at Guadalcanal

This photo was taken after the battle of Tenaru River on Guadalcanal in the Solomons. Dead Japs sprawl in the foreground and at left, while in the midst of the palms Marines clear up the battlefield with tanks. Japs are locked in combat once again on Guadalcanal with U. S. forces in a battle to regain the strategic airport on the large island. This is an official U. S. Marine Corps Photo.

Taking two games from the Sponseller five, their closest foes, the Citizens Ice raised their first place margin of safety to three games last night at Grate's. The Ice men had a 931 the second game.

Jim Primm began his series with two 203 games but ran into a flock of splits and failed to realize his 600 goal.

Jacksons Service scoring 927 in the second game, moved into third place by winning two from Al-brights. The Amateur Pros lost two games of their set to the Gold Bar, the last game by two pins. Doc Leese had a 219 for the losers.

In the only other match, the Ford V-8s lost the first two to the Strop Club on forfeit and then bowed in the finale by five pins.

The league-leading Kresges five of the Masonic Ladies' league settled back into their monotonous stride last night at the Masonic temple as they won three from Brownies.

The Salem News stuck to the pace as they walloped the Bankerettes three straight. In other matches, the Gem Shoes won two from Hutterers and Warks took two from Mullins.

GEORGIA FIREBALL ROLLS UP YARDAGE VIA AERIAL ROUTE

Sinkwich Sets Sight For Mark Established By Schwenk In '41

By ARNOLD DERLITZKI, Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Georgia's Frankie Sinkwich, the nation's No. 1 ball carrier in 1941, is rolling up most of his yardage by passing this year and it's making him football's foremost offensive threat.

Figures of the American football statistical bureau today disclosed that in five games Sinkwich has accounted for 308 yards by rushing and 499 by passing. The total of 807 yards is 33 more than Bud Schwenk of Washington university of St. Louis had last year in the same number of games and Schwenk went on to a modern record of 1,928 yards.

If Sinkwich—from Youngstown, O.—exceeds Schwenk's mark, his new found passing success will be largely responsible. In 1941 he ended far down the list in this department, but currently he is running fourth. The reverse has occurred in rushing where last year's No. 1 terror on the ground now ranks no better than 16th. But his combined talents have shoved him to the front in total offense, where he finished third last year.

Paul Governali, Columbia's passing wizard, is right behind the Georgia ball of fire in total offense although he has played in only four games. Virtually all of Governali's 790 yards, however, have come via the air. He has collected only 81 on the ground. Bob Ruman of Arizona was in third place with 173 yards, followed by Dick Fisher of Iowa Pre Flight with 697, Bob Steuber of Missouri, 669; Otto Graham of Northwestern, 648, and Steve Filipowicz, Fordham, 589.

Governali also is running second in individual passing, having 41 completions to 54 by Ray Evans of Kansas. However, the Columbia star has the better percentage of completions, 547, and far outranks all rivals in total yards gained with 769. The best percentage is held by Dene Dobbs of Tulsa, who has completed 18 of 22 passes for 228 yards and an 818 mark.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Signs of times: when Southwest Texas state went to Abilene for a football game with Abilene Christian, the contract specified that the home team had to furnish the visitors' transportation, both ways.... Holy Cross won't have the benefit of scouting reports for Saturday's game with North Carolina State. The floods stopped scout Hugh Devore at Quantico, Va., last week.

Unanswered Question
A lot of ball clubs may need rebuilding before next spring, but don't look for much trading at the December meetings.... Somebody asked Jim Gallagher, the Cubs' general manager about trade prospects and he summed up the whole situation this way: "Who is going to sell a ball player not eligible for the draft? And who is going to buy one that is?"

MASSILLON RATES AS NATION'S 1ST SCHOLASTIC TEAM

Tigers' Attendance Tops That of Powerful Collegiates

BY FRITZ HOWELL (By Associated Press)

MASSILLON, Oct. 22.—If the terrific Tigers of Massillon High school aren't the nation's No. 1 scholastic football team—both on the field and at the gate—the 26,000 fans in this steel-making town would like to know who has 'em beat.

Massillon's Tigers knocked over undefeated Steubenville 33 to 13, as 18,400 fans looked on last week for their 48th straight contest without a defeat; 72nd victory against a single loss and two ties in the last eight campaigns; and for a five-game attendance total of 74,000, with a four-game at-home average of 16,500.

That attendance average is better than 95 per cent of the nation's colleges can boast for their early-season home games.

At least, it's a better mark than Army, Cornell, Fordham, Navy, Princeton, Harvard, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Alabama, Georgia, Georgia Tech, North Carolina, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Denver, Utah and the entire Southwest conference have chalked up this season.

On top of that, Massillon is only 1,250 persons per game behind L. S. U., and 250 back of Stanford. Games with Mansfield, Warren, Toledo, Wake, Erie (Pa.), East, and Canton McKean are still in the offing, and the Tigers hope to reach last year's 10-game attendance of 151,500.

Two years ago, in Coach Paul Brown's last season before he moved to Ohio State to set a new attendance mark of 486,648 for eight games, the Massilloners drew 187,000 fans. That was a record for the Tigers.

After Brown left Massillon, with a record of 58 victories, one tie and a 6-0 loss to New Castle, Pa., for his last 60 games, Bud Houghton, one of Brown's junior high assistants, took over and led the Tigers to nine wins and a deadlock.

Then Houghton went to the navy, and now Edward Kammer, another graduate of the junior high ranks, is at the helm. The Tigers haven't shown any indication of slowing up, having won over Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Weirton, W. Va., Lincoln, Neb. (state champion), Alliance and Steubenville by impressive scores.

And the Tigers also lay claim to possessing the best scholastic band in the land.

Berlin Dam Project Boon To Mahoning Steel Mills

The 20 blast furnaces that make the Mahoning valley a great steel center depend on the caprices of the muddy Mahoning river for their vital water supply. The government, spending $6,500,000, is busy making the Mahoning less capricious—and therefore less dangerous to capacity steel production.

Uncle Sam is using the money to build the Berlin reservoir north-west of here, which will dam the Mahoning and allow 28 billion gallons of water to accumulate over a 6,500-acre site.

The dam will be dedicated next Sunday. Within a few weeks its gates will begin impounding water against the time when the Mahoning's level grows perilously low.

The reservoir, covering parts of Mahoning, Stark and Portage counties, will run from Alliance to a point northwest of Berlin Center. In addition to storing water for droughty seasons, it will prevent floods and help keep the temperature of the Mahoning lower than the 100-to-110-degree range of recent summers—too hot for efficient steel production.

Steel men explain the river's waters are used over and over again as he stream moves toward its confluence with the Shenango—the same water is utilized 10 to 15 times in blast furnace cooling and other steel-making processes, each time running back into the Mahoning. That once scenic stream becomes thicker and thicker as it progresses.

800,000,000 Gallons Needed

In some recent summers the flow has been only 30,000,000 gallons a day. The need is 800,000,000 gallons, valley industrialists said in obtaining congressional approval of the reservoir. A single blast furnace, like the new 1,100-ton smelter blown in at Youngstown last week, requires three to four million gallons in 24 hours. A big coke plant, such as the one Republic Steel Corp. is building at Warren, needs more than 700,000 gallons a day. Steel rolling mills, too, depend on the stream to cool their products.

Col. Herbert D. Vogel, U. S. Army district engineer at Pittsburgh, is in charge of constructing the reservoir. He explained the need: "Either a serious flood or a failure of the industrial water supply which would close Youngstown steel mills for a week or more would be a disastrous blow to our war program."

Steel company executives told congress they lost 100,000 tons of production last year due to lack of water. They asserted even the Berlin reservoir, and the 25-year-old Milton reservoir, farther downstream, would not solve the problem entirely; they hope the government will authorize additional work later.

Contract Let Last December

The 20 blast furnaces that use the Mahoning are operated by Republic Steel, Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Struthers Iron and Steel Co., and Sharon Steel Corp. In its meanderings the Mahoning touches Columbiana county, Alliance, Berlin, Newton Falls, Leavittsburg, McDonald, Niles, Warren, Girard and Youngstown.

The contract for the mile-long Berlin dam was let last December and concrete was poured in May. Men are still clearing the farms and woodlands which will be water covered. State Route 224, which runs from Boardman to Akron, had to be raised to escape inundation; so did part of the New York Central railroad's Alliance branch.

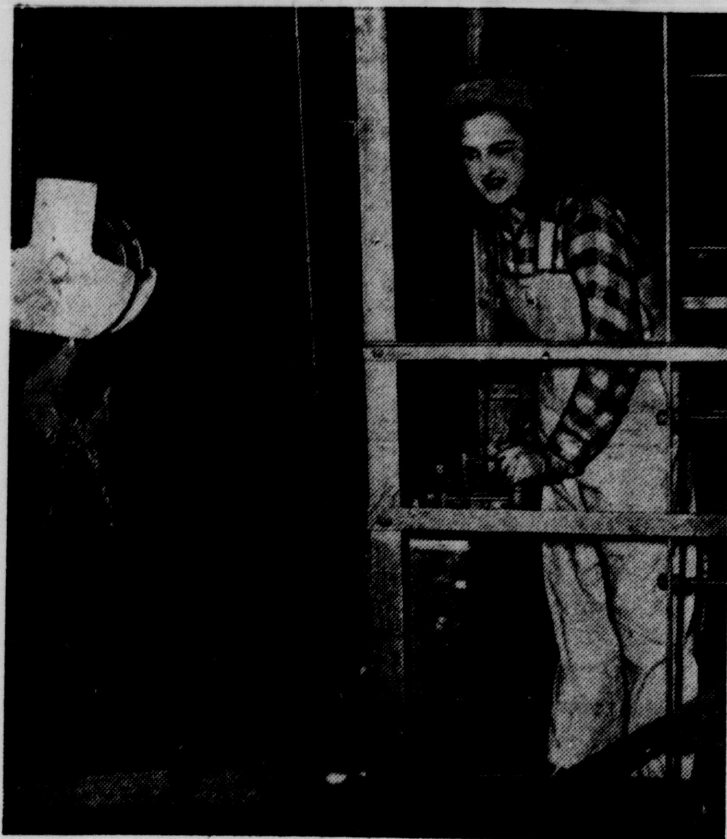

Sen. Harold H. Burton and Gov. John W. Bricker are scheduled to speak at Sunday's dedication ceremonies. Sen. Robert A. Taft also has been invited. William F. Maag, chairman of the Mahoning Valley Resources committee, is general chairman of the program.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Adin Cooper, professional flame eater and glass swallower, announced here that those things have gotten too soft for him and he wanted something tough. So he signed up with the Marines and went into training at Camp Elliott.

She Runs an Arsenal Crane

Not too long ago, pretty Frances Shugzda was working for a cosmetics company. Came Pearl Harbor and she donned overalls at the Water-town Arsenal near Boston, climbed a fifty-foot ladder into the cabin of a ten-ton crane and began working it over the heads of surprised male employees below. Frances is one of three girls who operate the cranes at the plant, thus releasing men needed for the armed forces.
